Senator Mushback's Bill to Prevent Betting

on Sporting Events.

Special Dispatch to The Evening Star.

RICHMOND, VA., January 28, 1892. State Senator Geo. A. Mushback of Alexandria is confident that his bill, senate bill No. 176. against gambling will pass. This bill is provoked by the depraved and excessive gambling at Jackson City at the Virginia end of the Long bridge, about five miles from the city of Alexandria. Jackson City was laid out with great cere mony in Andrew Jackson's day and was dedicated by that famous democrat while he was President of the United States. But for years Jackson City had only one house, a sort of wagoners' tavern. But when gamblers were driven from Washington they came over to Virginia, and in a night as it were Jackson City market closed strong at the best prices. The Virginia, and in a night as it were Jackson City sprung up to be quite a town.

Senator Mushback says that the sports and thugs of the national capital infest the place and any day in the year a long line of carriages may be seen in front of the gambling houses there. This place is popularly known as Monte Carlo. All sorts of sports are indulged in at this Monte Carlo—cards, craps, Guttenburg races, &c. Negroes as well as whites patronize the houses there. The bill provides that the fine shall not be BRUSSELS, Jap. 28 .- A portion of the resiless than $200 nor more than $500, and any person or associations of persons violating the law shall in addition to the fire be imprisoned not less than thirty nor more than ninety days. dence of the Duke of Arenberg, in this city, was discovered to be on fire at 2 o'clock this morning. The origin of the fire is unknown. A large agricultural fair interest demands a amendment to the bill excluding from its operation bon fide racing at agricultural fairs. It is represented that Mushback's bill would mille of Croy-Dulmen, a sister of the duke, who is the wife of the hereditary Prince of Croy-Dulmen. The princess and her young children, Prince Charles and Princess Isabella, barely esbreak up these turf contests at the Londonn and other popular fairs. Mr. Mushback has signified his intention of accepting the amendcaped with their lives.

The room of Count Egmont, together with its invaluable contents, was completely destroyed. The pavilion of Egmont was also destroyed, with all its valuable treasures, with the exception of some very rare gobelin tapestries which advanced the walls. These were hastily

For a number of years the place that has long been known as Jackson City has been in possession of gamblers, but it has only been since the enactment of the anti-pool bill by Congress that the book makers moved over there and changed the name to Monte Carlo. The railroad station is called the South End of All the works of art in the wing occupied by the Prince of Croy-Dulmen and his family were Long Bridge. Before the book makers tool possession there was one brick building there paintings and other works of art, but, with the exception of those parts of the structure above and it was generally known as the Jackson City Hotel, and on the upper floor of the buildmentioned, no damage was done.

The firemen and the employes of the duke worked desperately to save the building and ing a faro game was conducted, while on the lower floor was a place for the sale of whisky. worked desperately to save the building and its contents, and it was due to their efforts that so many of the treasures were saved. The duke's gardener and two firemen were seriously injured during the progress of the fire.

About two years ago Congress passed the anti-pool bill, and then the bookmakers decided to locate at Jackson City. Their settlement at that place meant the crection of seving and the progress of the fire. gardener and two firemen were seriously in-jured during the progress of the fire. Henry Clews' "Weekly Financial Review," issued today, says: During the past week there has been what may be considered a healthy break in the stock market. A combination of influences has favored the disposition of the "bears" to make a demonstration in force against the "bull" side. There was enough to back a reasonable extent of selling, and it was skillfully used by the "bear" leaders, fol-lowed by the whole rank and file. A vigorous demonstration made on Tuesday resulted in a decline of 11/2 to 3 points throughout the list. This success, however, developed an ex-cess of "short" sales, and the discovery of the dangerously oversold condition of the mar-ket caused, on the following day, a raily to about the range of prices from which the de-

This movement has served a useful purpose. As a trial of force between the two sides it has demonstrated that the "bulis" have not yet lost all their advantage. As a test of confidence, it shows that there are buyers ready to take whatever stock the "bear" traders may throw at them at tempting prices. As a symptom of the general spirit of the market it shows the permanency of the "bull" element, a disposi-tion to continue to hold rather than weariness of holding, and a preponderant expectation of a boom later on. The result of Tuesday's fight has therefore been a distinct gain for the mar-ket, as it has increased the activity. The course of the market for the next few months will very largely depend upon the maintenance of an attitude of moderation. As conditions now stand, there is nothing to warrant extreme advances, and attempts to force prices largely beyond intrinsic values are not likely to pay those who participate in them.

So far as respects influences acting from outside the market there has been no important change during the week. Washington Stock Exchange.

Senor Montt called at the State Department this morning and had a chat in Spanish with the second assistant secretary, Mr. Adee, who speaks Spanish quite fluently. The sub-jects referred to were not of immediate moment, as Senor Moutt merely desired copies of certain government documents for the use of his colleagues at Santiago, no doubt for the sake of material that might be of service in the controversy. Senor Montteither talks directly to Secretary Blaine or Mr. Adee, and refuses to have any communication with First Assistant Secretary Wharton, whose duty it was in the summer to refuse to recognize him as the agent of the congressionalists bememories of waiting outside of Mr. Wharton's door, seeking admission in vain, are very un-pleasant, and he therefore passes that door now without attemptingto enter when he visits the State Department. A CHILE-AMERICAN'S VIEWS

The following editorial from the Chilean Times of the 19th of December will be interesting, in view of later events that have not improved the situation in the least. The paper is published in English by a naturalized Ameri-"A week ago in publishing translations of Subsequent events have fully justified that opinion, and taken in the light of the telegram, which we publish in another part, from the minister for fore affairs to the intendente of Valparaiso, question may be considered to be as good as settled. At any rate, there is no longer room to fear that the relations between the United States and Chile will be disturbed in a man-ner that will be fraught with disastrous consequences to both countries. On the contrary, there is now every reason to believe that the for-mer traditionally good relations between the two countries will be restored. quarrel on paper, in fact, will be found to have served at least one good purpose. It has afforded both parties to it an opportunity for speaking their minds. There will be no longer any nagging between the two countries. Each of them has had its say, and each one now understands the grievances there can be no doubt that each will exert itself to the utmost to remove all motives for discord. After the late tension this result is very gratifying, for, although war between the two countries was hardly to be appre-hended, the question as it stood a few days ago was not without its disquieting aspects. Everything, however, now is changed vidious, we think we may fairly claim for the little republic a not unimportant victory. The paper is one of the latest samples of Chilean journalism that has reached Washington. A PEOPLE OF TOMORROW.

The administration evidently looks upon the suggestions of delay by the government of Chile merely as an effort to gain time, and does not merely as an effort to gain time, and does not consider that the situation has materially changed. An interesting side light on this phase of the question was thrown out by a naval officer in a conversation with a Stan reporter this morning. "The people of central and South America," he said, "know no today, they live wholly in the morrow. Mausina is their word for tomorrow and they are knownall over the world as the people of the land of maunina. If asked when they will do any particular thing they invariably reply "maunina." It is a tribal trait of procrastination, and this element is undoubtedly a strong factor in the delay in the present controversy."

The Persistent Pressure Made by Chile for The rumors of a demand by Chile for the recall of Minister Egan were continued today with more persistency than yesterday, though no definite news on the subject could be obtained. It is ascertained that the minister has been in possession for at least six weeks of a positive instruction from his government to ask for the recall of Mr. Egan, but that he did not ntilize it immediately. There is a growing be-lief that he has been pressed by his government to urge that a change be made and that he has made a verbal request to that effect. For some time it was confined to the place of origin, but later on the two adjoining bricks caught and a wealth of smoke overshadowed for nearly an hour the place. No. 5 and her men were at the fire in an incredible short space of time and saved from considerable loss the buildings. The fire originated, it is said, by the dropping of an ignited match in a knot hole. The flames were chiefly confined between the walls and inner plastering.

NEWS ALONG THE CANAL Up the canal the various ponds that were left by the drawing off of the water have frozen over and considerable skating is being indulged in by both town and country boys. At the end of the waterway the great trough is still filled, but it is only for the use of the mills. Canal boatmen, or many of them, are now engaged in land pursuits. Some of these have sought employment on the new railroad, while others are driving sand carts and working on the wharves. Along the line of the canal the towpath has been slightly damaged by the recent rains and it is probable it will not be attended to until the working season again opens. A number of the boats are now drawn up on the docks and are being repaired and reno

Death of Edwin J. Pond. The news of the death of Mr. Edwin J. Pond will cause profound sorrow among his many friends. He was taken sick with scarlet fever less than a week ago and for a day or two no serious results were anticipated. Later, howserious results were anticipated. Later, however, the fever assumed a more malignant form, resulting in his death early this morning. Mr. Pond had been employed in the coast and geodetic survey for about two years, having come to Washington from New Orleans, where he was formerly the treasurer of Strait University. He was an earnest worker in the First Congregational Church, having at the beginning of the present year been elected superintendent of its Sunday school. Mr. Pond's tall form and massive features made him a conspicuous person wherever he went, though he always shrank from publicity. During the comparatively short period of his residence in this city he had by his sterling character and modest but manly bearing endeared himself to many.

On the other hand, this move will probably be met by the Hill folks by a similar play. It is expected that the state convention of New York will be held about the 22d or 23d of February, which will be some time before the con-ventions of most of the states are held. It is claimed that Mr. Hill will have all the
